Panopoly is powerful base distribution of Drupal powered by lots of Chaos Tools and Panels magic. The distribution is designed to be both a general foundation for site building and a base framework upon which to build other Drupal distributions (see Drupalcon Portland video) or check out some of its key features (see full list):

Panopoly is a fully featured distribution driven by Apps. It is designed to be both a general foundation for site building and a base framework upon which to build other Drupal distributions. •

The distribution is powered from a curated list of contributed modules and custom apps and has a lot of really great features.

To get started with Panopoly, check out our installation guide which documents the different options available and check out our documentation for developing sites or developing distributions with Panopoly!

If you have any questions, be sure to check out the Panopoly FAQ and then post an issue in the Panopoly issue queue.

Developing Sites with Panopoly

Edited by hanoi, dyardley, populist. Log in to edit this page.*

It is the goal of Panopoly to allow developers to have a wide latitude to configure and customize the distribution to meet their needs. While there is a lot of functionality provided out of the box, most of that functionality is easily overridden or extended and such customization is encouraged!

However, there are certain development patterns that Panopoly encourages (i.e. exposing site functionality through panel panes) and developers that "play nice" with Panopoly will reap the benefits of that cooperation. In general, most "feature" development should be done as Panopoly Apps with any additional contributed modules or "glue" modules that are required. Since Panopoly is mostly focused on site architecture, site theming should be relatively straightforward but themers should consult information on theming Panopoly. It is also important to review the Panels 3 Documentation since much of Panopoly is based on Panels.

You may change (override) some of Panopoly's custom features, which may need you to create Features override. More details on this are explained on Updating Panopoly.
